January 2020

Happy New Year everyone... <3

I just want to acknowledge the passing of Ram Dass on the 22nd of December at his home in Maui, Hawaii. His books and teachings have been so important to me over the years. It's not a sad time, he is home. His work continues through others and his legacy lives on.

I'm excited to announce that this month I've started writing monthly Sun Signs on my website, follow this link to check them out... <https://ravenwinghealing.com/january/>

January is a month of heavy and transformative energy. We have the eclipse on the 11th and on the same day Uranus moves direct after being retrograde since August, and soon after we have the long-awaited Saturn-Pluto conjunction. For all of us there may be a sense of something ending, something concluding its journey. But with all things, nothing ever dies, energy must go on, it can't end. There must be a beginning of something else, something transformed – a becoming. There are many articles on the internet about the great Saturn-Pluto conjunction, yes there is likely to be some major changes on the political stage and honestly, it's about time. Some paradigm shifts centred around our governments and the quality of leadership we want for ourselves as a society. Our leaders will finally be held accountable, their dark secrets out in the open – the carpet lifted. It might be grimy under there so prepare yourselves.

Saturn-Pluto heralds a change in the way we see our own power. We may be feeling like our control as a society has been given over to 'the dark side' but we have a chance now to reclaim it. For massive change such as we need (as a planet) to occur - the existing structures must fall, chaos may ensue however, the rebuilding, the reformation of those structures is where our power is realised.

These cards are called The Enchanted Map Oracle by Colette Baron-Reid.

Coming Apart

A reflection on how we've been feeling the energies lately, particularly Saturn-Pluto. For a structure to transform it must be broken down. This can be a fearful time but don't enter that fear, observe it, question it, then allow it.

Beneath the mask we show the world we are naked in spirit, let the mask fall away and be reborn.

Strength

Reclaiming our power, recognising our roles as caretakers of the earth, we do not own her. We are of the earth and we evolve with her – not separate from her. Change is inevitable, when we accept the changes and transformations going on around and within us then we hold our power. Recognise ourselves as being one with the earth and all the chaos begins to make sense.

Hold your space in the face of fear and darkness for the other side of that is joy and Light.

Rescue

As Ram Dass said: "We're all just walking each other home", we're all spinning on this beautiful earth together, we're all experiencing life in physical form – together. We struggle, we play, we laugh, we create, and all the emotions that pour out of us like waterfalls often lead us astray. Sometimes we feel like we want to be rescued and sometimes we're the rescuer. What is at the heart of this? Love is at the heart... A desire for love and a desire to offer love.

The energies around us may have us in victim mode, looking outside of ourselves for someone to rescue us. But the power and the strength are in us all. We don't have to do it alone, lift yourself up to the level of courage and reach out your hand, someone is there...
